Information Technology

“Astura is primarily retained by domestic clients, ranging in size from start-ups through mid and large corporates. The department, which is well known for its transactional work, is also regularly instructed on significant contentious matters with recent work highlights related to software license infringements, failed software implementation and failed website developments. Other areas in which the practice excels includes e-payments, IP and data protection. Founding partner Matthieu Mélin, who also possesses coding skills, leads the team.”

Data Protection and Data Privacy

“The Paris-based team at Astura is expert in IT law, IP, and personal data, and is particularly strong in handling the data protection aspects of large transactions such as M&A and corporate financing. It is a popular choice for domestic clients ranging from mid-sized and large corporates and start-ups, with clients able to benefit from the firm's development of a platform to automate drafting legal documents. It also advises on GDPR compliance audits. Practice head Matthieu Mélin is the key contact.”
